

An aerial photograph of a city intersection in Brno, Czech Republic. The image shows a large, irregularly shaped plot of land in the center, outlined by a yellow solid line. This plot is further divided by a blue dashed line into a smaller, more rectangular area. The surrounding area includes a large, modern building with a green roof (the existing city hall), a multi-lane road with traffic, a railway line with several trains, and various parking lots filled with cars. The proposed new building site is currently a grassy, undeveloped area.
