

stanice Brno-Židenice

This is an aerial photograph of a residential and industrial area in Brno, Czech Republic. The map is overlaid with planning boundaries. A solid blue line outlines a specific area, while dashed orange lines indicate other planning zones. The area is densely packed with buildings, mostly residential, with some larger industrial or commercial structures. A railway line runs along the left side of the image. A large green field is visible in the lower right quadrant. The text labels are placed over the map to identify specific locations and planning areas.
